

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. J. C. ANDERSON, General Passenger Agent.

THE object in publishing this book is to bring those residents of our cities, who have not only the desire but the intention of finding a desirable summer home, into communication with those having such to offer. Dealing with much of the most charming scenery of the Hudson river, and the beautiful and populous uplands of New York traversed by the New York, Ontario & Western Railway, there is room for the most concise statement of fact only. The region traversed includes Rockland, Orange, Sullivan, part of Ulster, Delaware, Chenango, part of Otsego, Madison, western Oneida and Oswego counties—a section abounding in beauty, with its mountain summits rising three thousand feet above the sea ; its narrow, exquisitely lovely valleys ; its numberless streams and waterfalls, its gem-like lakes ; its rugged hill-sides, with their heavy growth of forest woods ; its quiet nooks, and its abundant game to reward the sportsman's toil. The whole region is free from malarial fevers, which are now proving so formidable and pestilential in all our large cities. The greater part of it is above the level of hay-fever and rose-colds, and its comparative dryness and uniformity of temperature, and the resinous perfume of the pines, hemlocks and cedars, make it a desirable region, at least in the summer and early autumn, for persons afflicted with pulmonary or rheumatic diseases.

The New York World, on August 6th and 7th, 1890, secured a thermometer test of the principal mountain resorts with the following results :

What Medical Experts Say.

THE following is copied from the Handbook of Historical and Geographical Phthisiology with special reference to the distribution of consumption in the United States, compiled and arranged in 1888 by George A. Evans, M. D., 909 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., member of the Medical Society of the County of Kings, New York, member of the American Medical Association, and formerly Physician of the Atlantic Avenue and Bushwick and East Brooklyn Dispensaries, etc.

The showing for cities in the United States of deaths from consumption for each 10,000 of population is as follows :

New York, N. Y	deaths per 10,000 inhabitants,	35.56
Philadelphia, Pa	“ “ “	31.59
Brooklyn, N. Y	“ “ “	29.84
Jersey City, N. J	“ “ “	27.58

Of the remaining counties Alleghany is the only one making as favorable a showing as Delaware. Sullivan, with a percentage of 1.0, is the lowest in the State. Dr. Evans makes the following note :

“The immediate neighborhood of Liberty, Sullivan Co., is one of the best regions, particularly during the summer and autumn months, within a ‘day’s journey’ of New York City, for consumptives and others, who require a pure atmosphere with moderate elevation. This opinion is supported by statistics and by clinical experience.”

WEEHAWKEN PASSENGER STATION.

The following recommendation of Sullivan County, as a healthful as well as delightful summer home, is from the pen of Dr. Bronson, who ranks among the oldest and best practitioners of the city of Brooklyn :

“I take pleasure in recommending my patients to avail themselves of the pure and invigorating air of the country contiguous to Liberty, Sullivan Co. Many of them have gone to the resorts in the neighborhood and returned with new strength and vitality. My attention has been called to the White Sulphur Springs, situated four miles from the village, and an analysis of the mineral water carefully examined. I have no hesitation in indorsing the opinion of those who have been benefited by its use, and feel certain that it is an excellent help to those having kidney and similar diseases.

"To those in search of rest and recreation no pleasanter county can be chosen. The change from sea-coast humidity to clear and pure air produces immediately an improvement in general health. I have for years chosen those resorts on the line of the Ontario & Western Railway as a resting-place during my enforced vacations, and invariably return to practice in a refreshed condition of mind and body.

"The improved condition of the passenger accommodations on your line, noticed with pleasure on my recent trip to Oswego and return, will prove agreeable to the thousands who travel over it during the coming season.

"C. H. BRONSON, M. D.,
"438 Pacific Street.

"Brooklyn, March 1st, 1889."

Dr. Evans, of Brooklyn, writes :

"The statements concerning the healthfulness of Sullivan and Delaware counties, particularly the former, are substantiated by statistics, as any one may learn from the vital statistics of the census of 1880, and by my own experience (my patients are almost exclusively consumptives) and by that of my professional friends in this city; and, furthermore, I believe, and it is the consensus of the opinions of many prominent medical men who have given the 'climatic' treatment of consumptives careful study, that we have on the western slope of the Apalachian system (Sullivan and Delaware counties are the nearest points in the western slope of that system to New York City) climatic conditions, throughout the whole year, as good, if not superior to those on the eastern slope of the Cordilleran chain, i. e., in Colorado, New Mexico, etc., so frequently resorted to by consumptives.

"G. A. EVANS,
"909 Bedford Avenue.

"Brooklyn, July 13th, 1889."

Dr. J. W. Van Dusen, Food Inspector, Department of Health, Brooklyn, writes :

"I have called on a number of farmers in the neighborhood of Liberty, Hurleyville, Woodbourne and Fallsburgh. I found the cattle in fine condition, being exclusively pasture and hay fed, producing as fine a quality of milk as is produced in the State. At the present time I have eleven children (young infants) in Sullivan County, and their progress is something remarkable. I must say that Sullivan County has all the elements to make it the most healthy summer resort in the East.

“J. W. VAN DUSEN, M. D.,
“901 Bedford Avenue.

“Brooklyn, August 9th, 1889.”

Dr. Tracy, of New York, writes as follows:

“For several summers past, when opportunities offered, I have been in the habit of directing my patients to visit Sullivan County, N. Y. A person convalescent from a severe illness is in need, first of all, of pure air; other climatic conditions closely connected with air are temperature and humidity. In the neighborhood of Liberty, Sullivan Co., these conditions are well met. The moderate altitude gives a refreshing purity to a cool and bracing air, which especially during the last season proved most grateful to the invalid sent from this humid city. I have pleasure in cordially recommending this section to patient and ‘summer home’ seeker, and hoping that your efforts to bring before the public these advantages for health and recreation so near at hand may be appreciated, I am,

“Very truly yours,

“E. CLARK TRACY, M. D.,
“30 East 126th St.

“New York, January 29th, 1890.”

Dr. Young writes:

“OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH,
“Municipal Department Building,
“BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 9th, 1890.

“DEAR SIR: In answer to your circular received some time ago, desiring my views of Sullivan County as a summer resort, I most freely and willingly give expression to them in the following lines:

“My family have summered in many different places for several years past, but for the past five or six seasons they have settled down upon Monticello and the immediate vicinity as the place of all places for health and comfort, quiet and relaxation, fun and jollification, and for pleasure and sport of all kinds and varieties. The situation of Monticello, 1,560 feet above the level of the sea, is unsurpassed, it equaled, in any part of the State. The air is dry and bracing, cool and exhilarating; the water is pure, wholesome and plentiful; the scenery around and about it is grand and picturesque, variable and superb; the mosquito, that pest of many summer resorts, can find no abiding-place in it, and the place is seemingly free from all malarial influences. The ponds and lakes in the vicinity are large and numerous; the walks and drives are exceedingly pleasant, beautiful and romantic, and as the mountain roads are kept in good condition they are freely patronized.

"To sum up briefly, I would say that for invalids, and particularly those suffering from pulmonary troubles, no more health-restoring and fitting spot could be found than Sullivan County; for those desiring perfect rest and quiet, they can be enjoyed here to their fullest extent, and for those who seek relaxation from the ordinary routine of business, combined with rational pleasure and amusement, it will be found a very difficult task to select a more appropriate spot.

"I have thus given you, as briefly as possible, my views and opinions in answer to the circular addressed to me, but I think they are sufficiently explicit to convince you that I am an ardent admirer of Monticello and other beautiful spots in Sullivan County, both for their salubrity of climate and their health-restoring qualities.

"Respectfully,

"JOHN S. YOUNG, M. D.

"337 Bridge St., Brooklyn."

Rev. Dr. Bowdish writes:

"OLD JOHN ST. METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

"I have been going with my family to the hills of Sullivan County for ten summers, each season with increasing satisfaction. Health and home are found in this section of the Empire State. There is no locality within the same distance of New York City where a person can get more for his money than in the vicinity of Liberty, Liberty Falls, Monticello and the surrounding country.

"The scenery along this route is exceedingly charming in its variety of mountain and meadow, river and lake. When any one has been privileged to spend the first summer pleasantly in this mountainous region, he contemplates the coming of the second season with restful delight. And when his second journey has actually begun, he can only dream of the welcome that awaits him in his summer home, and he commences already to feel the incoming of renewed strength to his wasted energies. Let me urge businessmen—bankers, brokers, merchants, mechanics and ministers, wearied in body and worried in mind, to halt. Rest, and try this trip. Get the health that will surely come to you in this mountain summerland.

"WELLESLEY W. BOWDISH, Pastor.

"Study, 44 John Street.

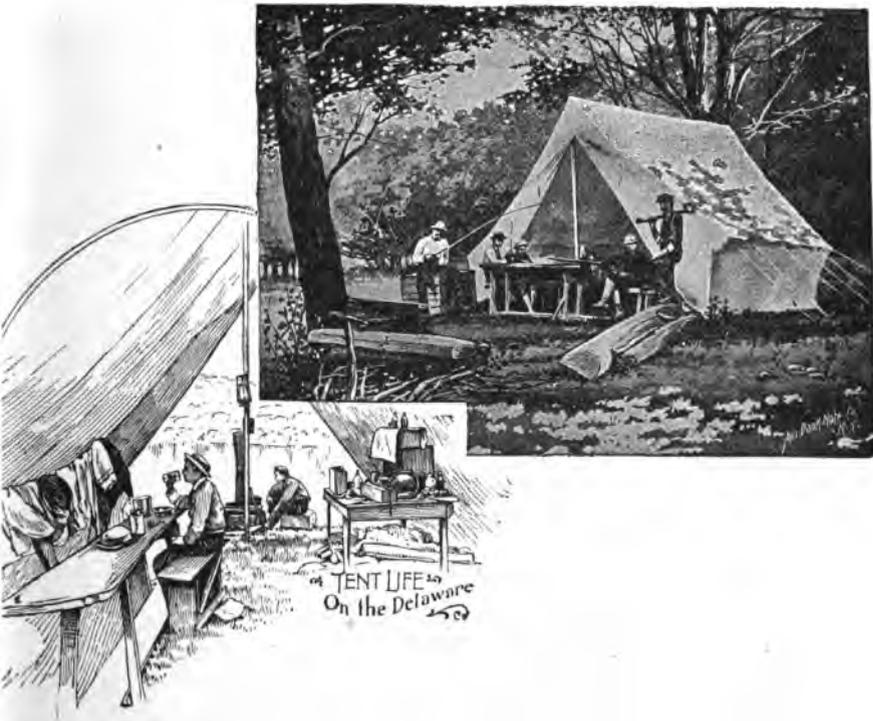

"NEW YORK, February 1st, 1890."

Dr. McLean writes :

“ Dr. MALCOLM McLEAN,
“ 29 East 126th Street,
“ NEW YORK, March 20, 1890.

“ DEAR SIR: It occurs to me that I may have neglected your communication of December 30th last, and will venture to say at this late day that I consider Sullivan County, in this State, a very healthful section, and should not hesitate to recommend it as a location for summer pilgrims.

“ Yours very truly,
“ MALCOLM McLEAN, M. D.”

Equipment.

ENGINES with extended smoke-box are used on all passenger trains, thereby avoiding the annoyance and discomfort of smoke and cinders. No cinders, no dust. Pullman Drawing-Room Cars are attached to all day trains. The additional rate for chairs from New York to all stations—Middletown to Parksville—is 50 cents; from Rockland to Apex, inclusive, 75 cents; from Walton to North Norwich, inclusive, $1.50; from Randallville to Oneida, inclusive, $1.25; from North Bay to Oswego, $1.50. Night trains are equipped with Pullman Palace Buffet Sleeping Cars. The Sleeping Car rate, per double berth, from New York to Oneida and stations north, is $2.00; to points south of Oneida, $1.50. Reclining Chair Car free New York to Suspension Bridge on this train. The Day Coaches are models of beauty and comfort—mounted upon 42-inch paper wheels, the aisles carpeted, and the toilet-rooms in each car supplied with all the toilet requisites found on sleeping or parlor cars. The Day Express carries a special car devoted exclusively to ladies traveling alone or with their escorts. It is furnished with the Forney Car-seat, the latest and most improved seat in existence. The top of the seat is at a height which affords a support to the head, while the back inclines backward and has projections which support the lumbar regions of the spine where support is most needed to prevent fatigue while traveling.

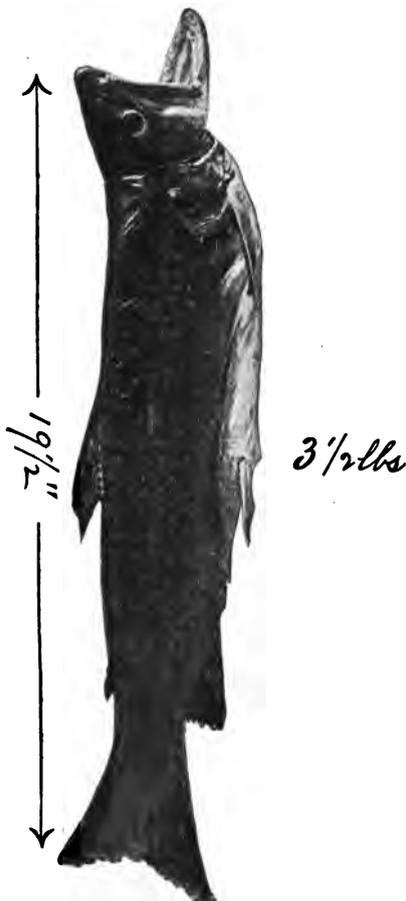

To the Sportsman.

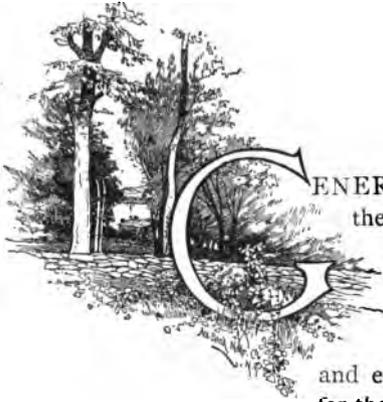

LONG the Middle Division the country abounds in interest. The sportsman can find upon the hills and in the forests, in their season, quail, partridge, woodcock and snipe; and in the lakes of Sullivan and Delaware counties, and along the course of the East Branch, Little Delaware, Mongaup, Neversink and Susquehanna rivers, the red-head, buffle and wood-duck, occasionally a canvas-back, while the "honk, honk" of the wild goose breaks the stillness of the early autumn air. Here, too, are found most of the four-footed game common to the more unfrequented portions of mountainous districts—rabbits, hares and squirrels.

But the trout-fishing in this region, among the crystal mountain streams, is a great attraction for the disciples of the gentle Izaak Walton. There are more than a hundred trout streams in Sullivan and Delaware, and a considerable number in Ulster, Chenango, Otsego, Madison and Oneida counties. They are annually visited by thousands of sportsmen, who take out by the hundreds these speckled beauties—the gamiest fish that swims. It would appear at first sight that the streams of Sullivan and Delaware would soon be "fished out," but the Company, with a desire to maintain their fishing qualities, have procured direct from the State Fish Hatchery, Caledonia Springs, N. Y., and from other parties since 1878, over seven million brook trout, besides a large number of lake and California trout. During 1892 one million brook trout were put in the trout streams from Walton to Mountain Dale, and this spring one million were again distributed in the same waters.

BROOK TROUT.

GENERAL description of the road has been given in the preceding pages. We now proceed to speak of the different stations along the line, specifying particularly those in which summer homes are offered. Crossing the Hudson river at the foot of West Forty-second or Franklin Streets, and entering the cars at Weehawken, one is whirled for the first fifty miles, with but few pauses, through a delightful suburban country, with its modern palatial residences and quaint old Dutch houses built with bricks brought from Holland centuries ago, and replete with romantic revolutionary and ante-revolutionary lore. The peaceful and fertile slopes of the valleys through which we pass have seen the course of carnage, the butchery of the tomahawk and bayonet, have echoed and re-echoed the bugles of conflicting armies, and under their carpet of green the bones of hundreds of combatants lie in unknown though honorable dust.

Probably few sections of our country contain so many scenes of beauty and points of historic interest as are found along the Hudson River Division of the road from Weehawken to Middletown, N. Y. The interest begins when first leaving the station at Weehawken, for one then passes almost over the spot where Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr fought their famous duel, the result of which threw a nation in mourning, and is increased as he reaches and glides swiftly past mountains, glens, islands and bays, where each one has furnished some legend that has made its name a household word in American homes. At Tappan, twenty miles from New York, the road skirts the base of the low hill upon the summit of which, in 1780, Major Andre was executed as a spy, and where his body remained until 1821. Seven miles north of Tappan the train plunges into the Haverstraw tunnel, and on emerging from the darkness far up on the mountain side one is greeted with a magnificent view. Below lies the broad Tappan Zee, dotted here and there with the white sails of river craft. Beyond, to the right, stretch the blue hills of Westchester County, while to the left can be seen the mountain ridges that mark the course of the lordly Hudson. A few miles beyond we pass Stony Point and enter the Highlands of the Hudson, whose scenery is unsurpassed by any in the world. This portion of the road is well known. Of its praises poets have sung and historians have written, and anything of an attempt towards its description, in such a work as this, would be unwelcome. Justly celebrated has it been from the time when Hendrick Hudson and his adventuresome crew gazed upon the shores from the deck of the "Half Moon." A well-known writer says: "The Danube has, in part, glimpses of such grandeur; the Elbe has sometimes such delicately penciled effects; but no European river is so lordly in its bearing; none flows in such grandeur to the sea." The roadway, following closely the edge of the river, is hewn out of the solid rock that forms the base of the Dunderberg, Crow's Nest and Storm King Mountains. These, together with Anthony's Nose, opposite, form the highest of the Highland group, their summits rising 1,200 feet above the water. Gloomy and grand they stand in all their massive proportions, with scarred and rugged battlements, against which the storms of ages have beaten, arousing in the mind of the beholder an overpowering sense of nature's majesty.

Rapidly passing the United States Military Academy at West Point, we reach Cornwall.

ORANGE COUNTY STOCK.

Walkill Valley Railroad.

Connections are made at Campbell Hall with the Walkill Valley Railroad, making not only the shortest but the most attractive route from New York to all the summer resorts on and adjacent to this line. For its entire length the route runs through the valley of the Walkill. To the northwest, far as the eye can reach, stretched the Shawangunk Mountains, while to the southeast, like piled-up walls of azure, lie the range of hills shutting in the Hudson river. No lovelier country can be found than that lying in this valley. In whatever direction one turns, his eye is greeted and his senses freshened with the sight of the grazing and dairy farms, with their fields of waving grain and grass, dotted here and there with herds of lowing cattle, with spacious barns, filled to overflowing with the fruits of careful husbandry, bearing witness to the prosperity of the land.

WALDEN, ORANGE CO.,

Is an enterprising and thrifty village, situated in the extreme northern part of the county, within the limits of the town of Montgomery, surrounded by charming pastoral estates, many of them the country residence of New York City's well-to-do merchants. From this point may be seen the highest peaks of the Catskills, while the glittering white of the Shawangunk range is brought to vivid view from reflections of the rising sun. Mohonk and Minnewaska are but a short distance, to which points many picnic parties resort from here.

Within the village are many handsome residences, while its active 3,000 population support three churches, two banks and two weekly papers of large circulation. Its educational facilities are of the best High-School order, carried on within a splendid new school-house that cost over $10,000. It contains also two of the largest cutlery establishments in the country, besides a woolen-mill, knitting-mill, overall factory, and the Rider Engine Works, where hot-air pumping engines are made.

Walden is a healthful summer resort for such as desire to get out of the city, and still be near, for it is only a short three hours' ride from New York, and should receive a wider recognition.

WALDEN STATION—Walden Post-Office.

- DAVID STEWART—Private house. 10 minutes' walk; accommodate 12; adults $4 to $7, children $3, transient $1; omnibus transportation 10 cents; excellent fishing; good livery; church near by; good table; pleasant walks and drives. References and full particulars on application.

WALLKILL, ULSTER CO.

The next station is a small village of about 600 inhabitants, surrounded by beautiful agricultural and grazing lands. One mile south of the village is located the factory of the New York Condensed Milk Company, J. J. Borden, Manager. During the summer they receive and condense as high as 30,000 quarts of milk per day, employing about 100 hands. A visit to the factory would well repay one for the time. The whole establishment bears testimony to the belief in the motto that "cleanliness is next to godliness." Not a speck of dirt can be found inside the building.

NEW PALTZ, ULSTER CO.

A very thrifty village of 850 inhabitants, with three churches, two banks, two weekly newspapers, and a State Normal School with a large attendance. New Paltz is the railroad station of Lake Mohonk and Lake Minnewaska mountain houses. New Paltz has had an extraordinary growth of late, the population having increased fifty per cent. in five years. The village has been incorporated and the streets generally graveled, provided with street lamps and flagging-stone sidewalks. The houses erected during the past five years are occupied, to a great extent, by people desiring the advantages of a first-class education for their children at the State Normal and Training School, of which Dr. F. S. Cohen is Principal. The library advantages of New Paltz, coupled with the prevailing low rates of taxation and the almost entire absence of the rough element, makes this village a particularly desirable residence for people of means and culture.

who visit the lake are impressed with the wonderful and greatly varied character of the scenery—a beautiful lake; massive rocks, each of them thousands of tons in weight; towering cliffs and far-extended views in all directions, embracing large portions of six States, and covering several thousand square miles. A well-known writer says: “One of those rare places where the creative power seems to have rehearsed for every form of grandeur and gentleness; an Alpine lake on the top of a mountain, 1,200 feet above the valley, the mountain itself a gigantic monument of rock scenery wrought into every form of wildness and grace, and from any point on the summit cliffs an outlook over two perfect valleys, with fifty miles of the western horizon crowded with glorious mountain ranges, amid whose mysterious realms the sinking sun and the mountain mist work such magic as only poetry exalted to worship can fitly rehearse.” The Mohonk House is located on the edge of the lake, and commands a magnificent view of lake and mountain. The rear of the hotel looks out upon the extensive Rondout Valley, bounded by the Shandaken Mountains and some of the Catskills on the north. Adjacent to the hotel the grounds have been graded and smoothed and converted into handsome lawns, interspersed with native trees, under whose shade the huge rocks form seats of every imaginable shape and character. The proprietors have constructed walks and stairs, rustic arbors, seats and bridges, with skill and taste. Names have easily been attached to these romantic walks, so that days and weeks are pleasantly spent in exploring them.

The season opens June 1st and closes October 20th to November 1st. Communications in regard to board, rooms, etc., should be addressed to the proprietor, Albert K. Smiley, Mohonk, Ulster County, New York.

LAKE MINNEWASKA

Is located on the summit of the Shawangunk Mountains, ten miles southwest of New Paltz. The lake is much larger than Mohonk, and is surrounded by the same extraordinary bluffs and masses of tumbled rocks. A writer in the New York Evening Mail thus describes the lake:

103 MILES FROM NEW YORK. FARE, INCLUDING STAGE, $3.71; EXCURSION, $6.90.

“Set into the hills like a bowl is the beautiful Lake Minnewaska, flanked on one side and end by bold, precipitous cliffs, and on the other side and end by sloping wooded shores. Along these cliffs and shores, both at their summits and low down by the edge of the lake, are walks conveniently cleared of undergrowth and provided at frequent intervals with rustic, thatch-roofed kiosks or summer houses, offering most inviting spots for rest. No summer resort anywhere is more amply provided with attractive strolls and with seats. Minnewaska Lake is noticeable for the magnificent broken bluffs at its eastern borders.”

The Minnewaska Mountain House was opened in 1879. It is located on Minnewaska Heights, 150 feet above the lake, and about 1,800 feet above tide-water, or nearly as high as the Catskill Mountain House, and from every room in the hotel there are magnificent valley and mountain views, taking in the mountains of New Jersey on the south, the Highlands of the Hudson and Newburgh Bay on the southeast, the Housatonic Mountains of Connecticut to the east, the whole line of the Berkshire Mountains of Massachusetts and the Green Mountains of Vermont to the northeast, the Helderberg Mountains to the north, the bold outlines of the Catskills and the Shandaken Mountains to the northwest, and the Neversink and Shawangunk hills to the southwest. The views embrace several river valleys, including the valley of the Hudson from Cornwall to the mountains about Lake George.

All communications regarding rooms and board should be addressed to the proprietor, Mr. Alfred H. Smiley, Minnewaska, Ulster County, N. Y.

ROSENDALE, ULSTER CO.

The village proper has a population of about 1,000 inhabitants.

100 MILES FROM NEW YORK. FARE, $2.48; EXCURSION, $4.20.

The principal industry is the manufacture of the famous "Rosendale Cement," the daily output of which, over the whole district, reaches about 9,000 barrels. At Rosendale the roadway crosses the Rondout Creek and D. & H. Canal by an iron bridge 150 feet high and 960 feet long, giving a glorious bird's-eye view of the valleys on both sides. From the bridge the cement quarries, in the perpendicular face of the mountains, look like the caves of the ancient cliff dwellers.

MIDDLETOWN, ORANGE CO.,

Next to Newburgh the largest town in Orange Co., and situated 545 feet above tide-water, was made a city by Act of the Legislature, taking effect June 30th, 1888. The census of 1870 gave a population of 8,494, while 1890 gives 11,918, a gain of over forty per cent., a rate of increase equaled by no city or village in southern New York. The city is beautifully located in the midst of a fine agricultural district, and is the centre of trade for a large part of Orange, Sullivan and Delaware counties. The trade of the young city is growing more and more extensive each year, and with reason, for its stores of every kind are as large and as well stocked as those usually found in cities with many times the population. On the western outskirts of the city, in the midst of spacious and well-kept grounds, is the New York State Homœopathic Hospital for the Insane. The buildings provide for about 600 patients, and the accommodations are now taxed to their fullest capacity. The hospital buildings were erected at a cost of a trifle more than $1,000,000, and in addition to this a very considerable sum has been expended in adorning and beautifying the grounds, free access to which is given.

Middletown has ten churches, two national banks, and a savings and private bank; two daily, two semi-weekly and two weekly papers. Its principal manufacturing industries are saws, files, wool and straw hats and the finer grades of leather. The city is growing steadily in favor as a place of residence, many wealthy families being attracted to it by its fine schools, broad, well-shaded and well-kept streets, its abundant water-supply and its refined and cultured society. The city has a number of well-kept hotels, and in and about it are a number of families who will receive summer boarders. In the Wallkill river, but a few miles away, and in Monhagen Lake, but a mile from the city limits, fine bass and pickerel fishing may be enjoyed. At Wickham Avenue Station, Middletown, is located a large and attractive dining-room, where the famous Orange County milk and butter, beside other wholesome food, is served in abundance; brook trout and game served in season. The restaurant is run by Wm. Seeholzer. All trains stop for meals.

WINTERTON, SULLIVAN CO.

This is a small village in the town of Mamakating, about 600 feet above the sea. The foot-hills of the Shawangunk Mountains commence just west of the village. To the right and left, extending far into the dim distance, the mighty front of the Shawangunk appears like an unbroken, advancing billow. Our way leads to the right, along the eastern slope, gradually climbing the range.

Washington Irving in his "Hans Schwartz."

In the colonial period it was a frontier town on the western border of civilization, and suffered much from Indian raids and hostilities. It is 757 feet above the sea, and has a magnificent landscape of mountain and forest, lake and stream. For a long time this town of Mamakating, with its two villages of Bloomingburgh and Wurtsboro, was the business centre of an extensive region of country. The hunting and fishing are excellent, several good trout streams and two or three small lakes being found in the vicinity, and the mountain abounds in game. There are good hotels, and thirty or forty private families who will take summer boarders.

HIGH VIEW, SULLIVAN CO.

BLOOMINGBURGH STATION—High View Post-Office.

For the convenience of residents and guests of summer boarding-houses situated near the Bloomingburgh depot, the Government recently established a post-office near the station, calling it "High View." This is a great convenience to that locality, and saves a trip of a mile and a half down into the valley to the village of Bloomingburgh for the mail.

The summer boarding-houses about High View Post-Office are situated at an elevation of about 950 feet above the sea on the eastern slope of the Shawangunk Mountains, and command from their lofty situation broad and extensive views, embracing several hundred square miles of mountain, forest, lake and stream.

High View has many attractions for those seeking a cool, dry and invigorating atmosphere, with excellent boating, gunning and fishing among the numerous trout streams and small lakes in its vicinity.

Near Bloomingburgh Station the railway enters a tunnel, 3,800 feet in length, which penetrates the Shawangunk Mountains 750 feet above tide-water and about 520 feet below its summit. The tunnel passed, the railway descends toward the Mamakating Valley.

roundings attract all who see it. It was incorporated in 1866, and has a population of about 500; there are several good hotels, and numerous boarding-houses in and about the village. Its three churches—Catholic, Dutch Reformed, and Methodist—are as fine edifices as can be found in a country village. Well connected by telephone, postal, and W. U. Telegraph; two New York mails daily; a good livery stable; fine drives and picnic groves; well-stocked trout streams in and near by; good hunting in season within six miles (Wurtsboro being the nearest station), is the great fishing-ground of Sullivan County, comprising five lakes, viz., Yankee, Wolf, McKee, Foulwood, and Masten.

The absence of factories insures to the weary citizen of the metropolis complete rest, pure and bracing air, while the water is the very best. Among those who will accommodate city guests this season are the following:

Port Jervis, Monticello & New York R.R.

At Summitville connection is made in Union Station with the trains of this road. Leaving Summitville, the line follows the beautiful Mamakating Valley to Huguenot Junction, and from there traverses the picturesque Neversink Valley and the wild country adjacent to Monticello. During the season of summer travel, through day coaches and drawing-room cars will run from Weehawken to Monticello. This will obviate any changing of cars at Summitville, and passengers boarding the cars at Weehawken will go through without change to destination. Through tickets are issued and baggage checked to destination.

HUGUENOT, ORANGE CO.

Celebrated for its good hotel and the famous Huguenot Chalybeate Springs, which are being extensively introduced and used as a remedy for those afflicted with rheumatism, dyspepsia, scrofula, liver and kidney complaints, diseases peculiar to females, and as a general purifier of the blood. Though but recently discovered, the virtues of the waters have been attested by many with beneficial and remarkable results in the cure of diseases.

New York. Through passenger service during the summer season. A charming village of about 3,500 inhabitants, situated in the heart of the Shawangunk region, 340 feet above the sea. It has many delightful drives, and from near-by points are to be gained the most magnificent views of natural scenery to be found in the East. Within a few miles of Mohonk, Minnewaska, Meenahga and other celebrated resorts. Many of the noted trout streams of Ulster and Sullivan and the fishing lakes of the latter county are within easy driving distance. Among the bits of natural scenery of the immediate vicinity are Sam's Point, a rocky ledge crowning the highest of the Shawangunk summits; the Ice-Caves—natural openings in the mountain—where ice and snow are found the year round, and Minnewaska, Honk, Hanging Rock and other beautiful cascades and waterfalls. The village of Ellenville has well-paved and shaded streets, and is lighted with gas. Many of the hotels and boarding-houses of the region are connected by telephone with one another and with the Hudson river system. There are many fine residences, six churches, excellent schools, and the place is noted for the intelligence, refinement and sobriety of its people and the healthfulness of its climate.

MT. MEENAHGA HOTEL

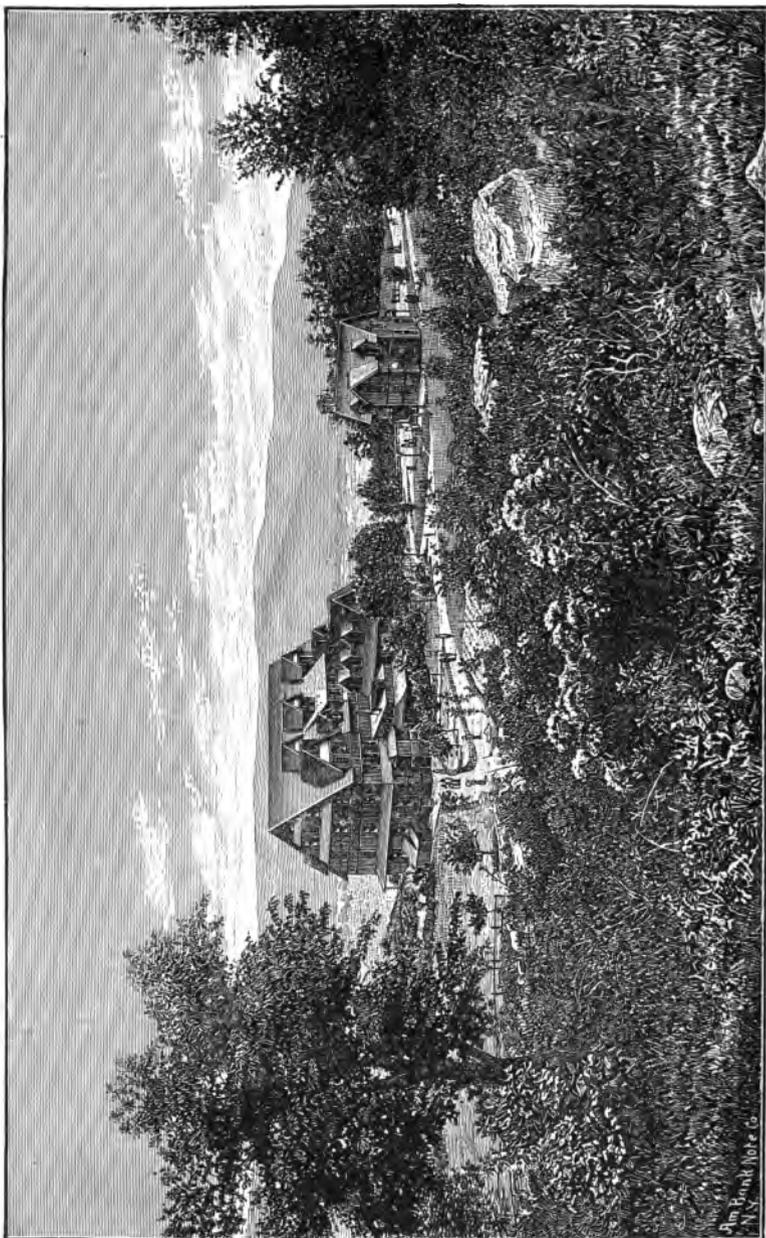

Is located in the Shawangunk Mountains in Ulster County, about two miles from the village and railroad station of Ellenville, at which point stage—a private conveyance—will meet guests, on arrival of any train, upon notification.

Mt. Meenahga was opened in 1883 with accommodations for about forty guests. In 1886 the house was enlarged so as to provide (with the cottages) for one hundred. This season additions have been made making its present capacity 175.

All the buildings are located on a picturesque bluff facing northwest, 1,500 feet above tide-water, and special effort has been made to make them attractive and in harmony with the beautiful natural surroundings.

In connection with the house there are six cottages, from 300 to 1,000 feet distant. These have been built with a view of renting to families desiring the quiet and privacy which a cottage especially affords. Each of them has a sitting-room with open fireplace; from three to five sleeping-rooms, furnished plain but complete with necessary furniture.

From the porch and rooms of each story of the boarding-house and every cottage are enjoyed remarkable mountain and valley views, beautiful not only in their extent and variety, but as well in the clearness and distinctness with which forms and places may be traced. All the prominent peaks of the Catskills, with the smaller mountains intervening; Ellenville and other villages; lakes and winding streams among the hills and along the valleys are all plainly seen with the naked eye, and combine to form a panorama, as seen from this point, equaled by but few of the famous summer resorts. The property comprises 250 acres of wild mountain land, embracing fifty acres under cultivation. From the farm and farms adjoining is furnished an abundance of vegetables, also a full supply of Alderney milk and cream.

MT. MEENAHGA HOTEL.

The season opens June 1st and closes October 1st to 15th. Communications in regard to board, rooms, etc., should be addressed to the proprietor, U. E. Terwilliger, Ellenville, Ulster Co., N. Y.

GREENFIELD, ULSTER CO.

Greenfield, with an elevation of 1,100 feet, is situated four miles from Mountain Dale Station on the main line, and five miles from Ellenville, the terminus of the branch to that place. The drive from Ellenville to Greenfield is along the Beerkill stream, affording one of the most attractive drives in the country. From Mountain Dale the road leads over the hills and affords a magnificent view of the Shawangunk, Catskill and other mountain ranges. Greenfield is well named, as its hills and valleys are always green and bright in the summer season. Its heavy mountain freshets in spring and fall make it one of the cleanest localities in the State. It is well drained by the Beerkill, into which a number of fine trout streams empty. Its public and private lakes and ponds, coupled with its groves, waterfalls and romantic walks, make it one of the most attractive summer resorts in the State, and its accommodations are of a high order. Some 500 boarders fill its houses each season. Has post-office, stores, church and telephone communication with Western Union Telegraph Co. at Ellenville.

ELLENVILLE STATION—Greenfield Post-Office.

WINDSOR LAKE HOTEL.

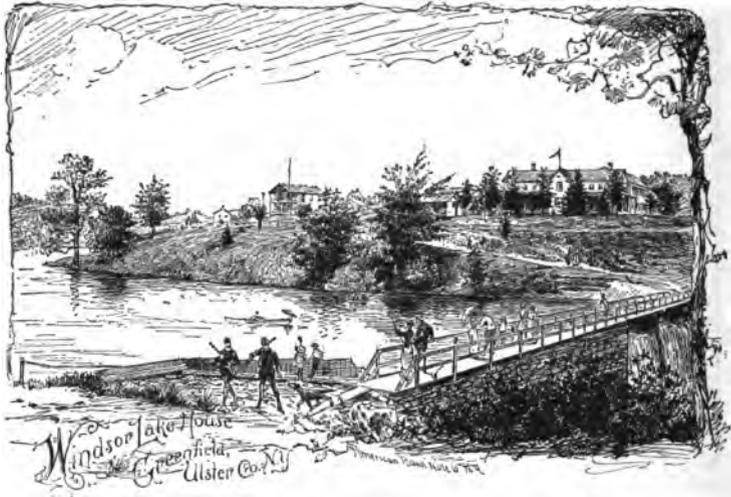

Is located in the Shawangunk Mountains, Ulster County, five miles from Ellenville, at which station carriages will meet guests on arrival of any train upon notification.

Windsor Lake Hotel was opened in 1885, with accommodations for fifty guests; during the past fall and winter the old building has been taken down, and an entirely new and commodious structure has been erected, so as to provide (with the cottages) for two hundred. The new hotel has all improvements. The halls and stairs are broad; sanitary plumbing throughout; hot and cold water, bath and toilet rooms on every floor; open fireplaces in the parlor, dining-halls, office, and many rooms. Telephone in house, connected with Western Union Telegraph Co.; daily mail.

The main building and cottages are situated on an eminence overlooking the lake, 1,500 feet above tide-water. From the broad piazza, which extends entirely around the hotel, may be had fine views of the surrounding mountain scenery.

A large casino has been erected, containing two fine regulation bowling-alleys on lower floor, with large ball and billiard room on second floor.

Immense lawn for tennis, croquet and archery. The lake is well supplied with good boats, which are free to guests; good fishing hunting, etc.

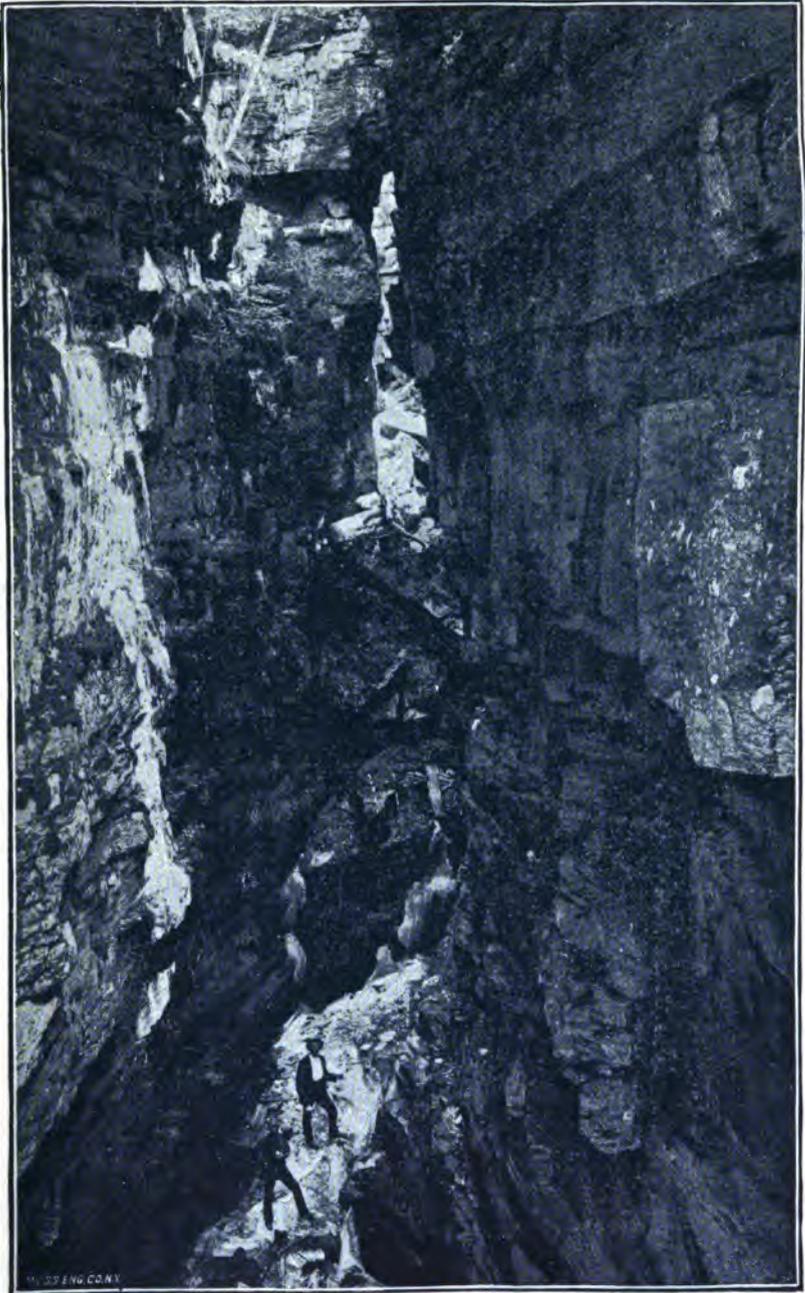

WINDSOR LAKE HOTEL.

The place abounds in fine views, bluffs and ravines; romantic walks, well shaded. A farm, belonging to Hotel, supplies abundance of vegetables, also a full supply of Alderney milk and cream. The season opens June 1st and closes Oct. 15th. Communications in regard to board, rooms, etc., should be addressed to the proprietor, Paul Nichols, Greenfield, Ulster County, N. Y.

The Delaware Mountains.

Returning to the main line at Summitville, we commence at once a rapid ascent of the Delaware Mountains, the high range which, with its outlying spurs, divides the Neversink and Mongaup valleys from the main stream and valley of the Delaware river.

In the eight miles between Summitville and Mountain Dale the ascent is about 420 feet, Mountain Dale being 962 feet above the sea. There are no views in the Catskills or Adirondacks more attractive to the tourist than can be seen from the car windows, as the train winds its serpentine course around the mountain spurs, standing gloomy in their grandeur.

This climbing of the hills continues pretty steadily, though with an occasional stretch of level ground or a slight depression, till Young's Gap, twenty miles further on is reached, where the track of the railway is 1,800 feet above tide-water. The whole region abounds in extensive forests, fine lakes, beetling cliffs of granite, gneiss and older limestones, with some bits so rough and wild that they seem to belong to the ancient realms of chaos; but it has also many beautiful, quiet and charming landscapes, and some so grand as to awaken the admiration and awe of the beholder.

FALLSBURGH, SULLIVAN CO.

The village is 1,224 feet above the sea, and receives its name from the falls of the Neversink river at this point. The main fall is twenty-five feet in height, and the stream is very deep, and dashes through the narrow, rock-bound channel for a long distance below the falls, wearing by its incessant action basin-like cavities in the solid rocks of the river-bed. The region is gaining in popularity each year, and many a tired city merchant and wearied belle find rest and recreation among its many quiet and peaceful homes. The country is unsurpassed in beauty. From lofty hills overlooking rich valleys through which run brooks filled with trout, can be seen here and there beautiful lakes surrounded by cool woods, while green orchards and waving fields of grass and grain meet the eye on every side. Fine drives skirt the river on both banks, and, at a distance of about two miles apart, there are thriving villages. The river itself is a succession of cataracts and rapids, with small intervening pools alive with fish. Here there are no mosquitoes, no danger of malarial diseases or hay-fever. The drives are unsurpassed in beauty and variety of the scenery through which they pass, and the roads are excellent. From Fallsburgh, northwest, following the Neversink up to the foot of the "Big Indian," the country is equally beautiful and inviting.

WOODBOURNE, SULLIVAN CO.

Four miles from Fallsburgh Station, over an excellent road and at an elevation of 1,400 feet above the sea, is located this delightful summer retreat. The scenery is superb, and the views up and down the valley are of unsurpassed loveliness. The Neversink river, on which the village is situated, is pronounced one of the best trout streams in the State. The surrounding country abounds in mountains, forests, streams and lakes. East Lake, on the summit of one of the many highlands of Sullivan County, completely surrounded by forests, affords ample sport for boating and fishing. This beautiful sheet of water is within easy access of the village, and is a popular resort for picnics, etc. There are other lakes within a few miles of this resort, accessible by excellent drives, among which are Pleasant Lake, Loch Sheldrake, Alton Lake and White Lake. Aside from the delightful scenery and well-kept roads of this locality, it is a fact which the experience of years has demonstrated, that the air circulating among the hills and valleys is possessed of curative properties that render the existence of pulmonary or bronchial difficulties next to an impossibility. The value of this region for cool, dry air and pure spring water is now recognized by leading physicians and tourists who, having once visited this resort, are certain to return for many successive seasons.

villages in the State. The village itself is on rolling land, and its residences and private grounds are extremely attractive. High hills rise on every side, from which extensive views of the rugged outlying country may be enjoyed. The atmosphere is pure and bracing, and fevers of any kind never originate in this region. The air is peculiarly favorable to asthmatics and persons afflicted with kindred diseases. A mosquito would be a curiosity in this section. Heat never interferes with sleep, and neither dampness nor fog render evening or morning disagreeable.

There are trout streams in the vicinity, and the best of bass-fishing in Pleasant Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, one mile distant. Katrina Falls, a picturesque cataract, with good surroundings; Edward's Island, in the Neversink, and Strange's Grove are favorite retreats about the village. Besides the unsurpassed fishing found in the vicinity of Monticello, the autumn season brings abundance of game, partridge and other small game being especially plentiful. The churches of the village are an Episcopal, a Methodist, a Presbyterian and a Catholic.

MONTICELLO & FALLSBURGH TALLY-HO STAGE LINE. A line of coaches between Monticello and Fallsburgh will commence running June 15, 1892, and meet all N. Y., O. and W. passenger-trains, except the night line (Nos. 5 and 6). The proprietor having an extensive connection, and being well known throughout the locality, will be pleased to assist those in search of desirable summer homes in procuring suitable accommodation. Ticket and Stage Office at Rockwell Building, Monticello, N. Y. Private carriages furnished at reasonable rates. Charles Stanton, proprietor.

LOCH SHELDRAKE.

LIBERTY FALLS, SULLIVAN CO.

117 MILES FROM NEW YORK.
FARE, $2.05;
EXCURSION, $5.00.

At this point the road crosses the valley of the east branch of the Mongaup river on a new and handsome iron bridge, 102 feet above the water and 1,100 feet long. The scenery is wild and grand, but the falls are traditional, or belong to a former condition of the Mongaup river. The valley of this branch of the Mongaup is not as impressive as that of the Neversink, but is more primitive in its wildness. The village is small but enterprising. The hotels and farm-houses in this vicinity can accommodate about 450 persons at one time, and offer good board at reasonable rates.

LIBERTY, SULLIVAN CO.

One of the most popular summer resorts in this section, situated 1,578 feet above tide-water, still in the valley of the middle Mongaup, a stream whose name signifies in Indian "dancing feather," and around which the glistening steel of the railway track winds in almost a true line of beauty, on its upward climb, two miles beyond, to the summit between the blue lake, Indian named Ontario, and the sea. To the north of the village lies a range of hills, more than 2,000 feet high, dappled with fields and woods, where the cosy farm-house nestles, and up whose sides the gardens climb. Westward lies Walnut Mountain, from whose summit eleven lakes, gleaming like silver shields in an emerald setting, may be seen with the naked eye. From this coign of vantage the vision may range from the wood-capped peaks of Pennsylvania to the crags of the Catskills, where the ghostly crew of Navigator Hudson keep their vigils, and where Rip Van Winkle took his nap.

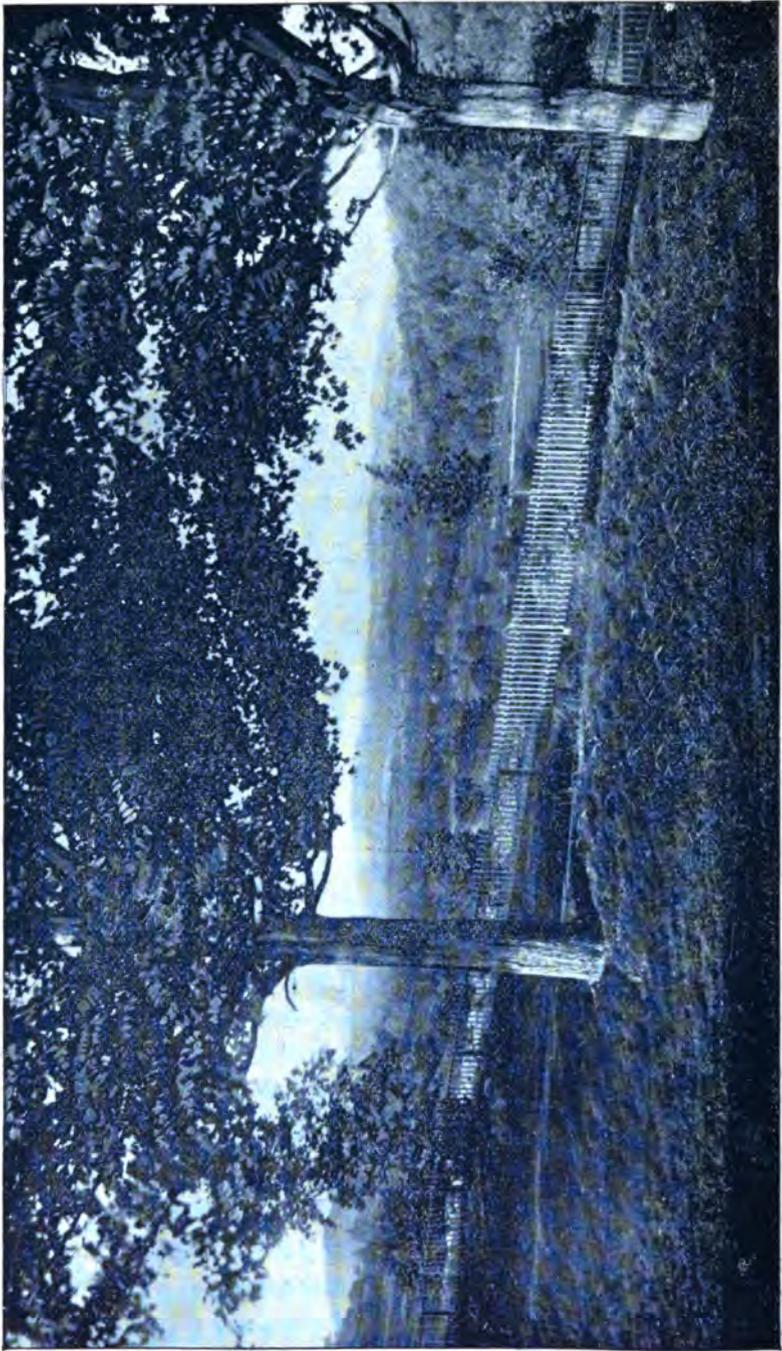

The whole panorama is "woodsey and wild and lonesome," east and west and north and south, while

"Along its tawny gravel-bed
Broad-flowing swift and still,
As if its meadows levels felt
The hurry of the hills"— stretches the Mongaup.

"Noiseless between its banks of green
From curve to curve it slips;
The drowsy maple shadows rest
Like fingers on its lips."

The high altitude, with its cool, health-imparting breezes, combine to make Liberty very desirable as a summer home. The walks and drives about the country are beautiful and romantic. For all those who desire to pass a vacation amid beautiful scenery, pure air and water, with fresh and bountiful dairy products, amid streams and ponds well stocked with trout and bass, upland and marsh with whirring partridge and silent woodcock, we would suggest their locating in one of the quiet farm-houses mentioned in the following pages.

HOTEL WAWONDA.

(Cut on accompanying page.)

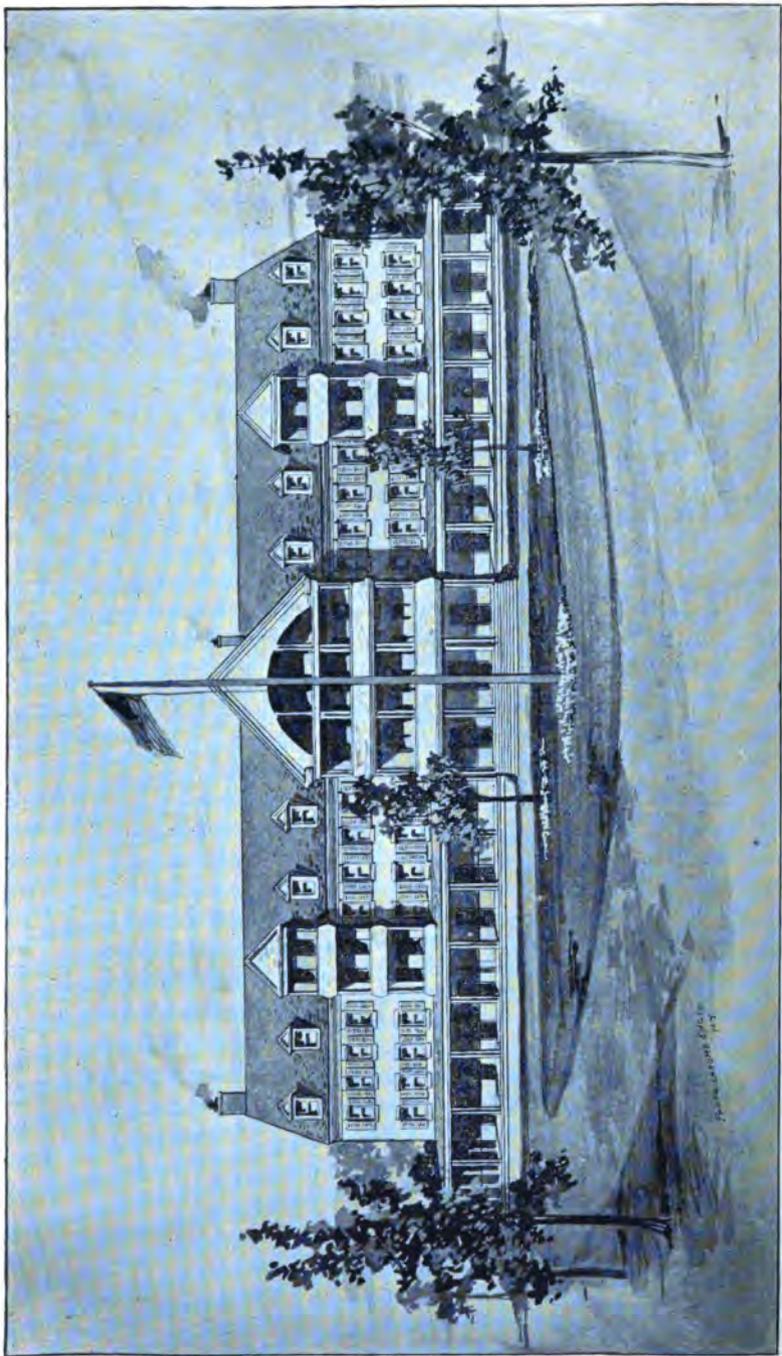

The finest-located and best-equipped house in Sullivan County. Elevation 2,000 feet; one mile from Liberty Station; main building 180 feet, with extension of 135 feet, and 650 feet of broad veranda, besides private balconies.

The house contains one hundred and fifty sleeping-rooms, large offices, parlors, etc., and the dining-room, parlors and main hall are heated by large open fireplaces; halls and offices heated by furnace; sleeping-rooms large, light and airy, with closets, presses, etc., high ceilings and perfect ventilation. The house is supplied with pure spring water from an adjacent mountain, and has baths, electric bells, and gas. Each floor is fitted with fire-hose, and electric fire-alarms. Everything to provide for the safety and comfort of the guests has been done, and the sanitary arrangements are perfect. The grounds comprise about fifty acres of field and wood. A short distance from the hotel on the grounds is a fine grove, nicely laid out with walks and seats. Bowling-alley and billiard-hall on the grounds for the exclusive use of the guests, also telegraph-office in the house.

There is not an objectionable room in the building, and the location is such that from all the many windows a magnificent view is obtainable, the scenery changing like a panorama. Looking south-erly from the balconies, and the eye falls on the village of Liberty with its neat cottages embowered in shade; while to the eastward the peaks and crags of the Catskills and the Shawangunks arise to view. North and west the vision takes in the rounded summits of Walnut and Bald Top Mountains, with their farms and fields and lowing herds.

In the valley within one-half mile flows the crystal Mongaup, noted for its speckled beauties, while Stevensville, Revonah, Lilly and White lakes are only short drives distant. The site of this new summer home was selected from many in the vicinity as being "the chiefest among ten thousand and the one altogether lovely;" the elevation is high, and the ground slopes in every direction, giving perfect drainage.

The writer of the History of Sullivan County, speaking of the hills at and near this point, says that in sultry weather, when Æolus is elsewhere, still the refreshing breezes and gentle zephyrs are here toying with the daisies and coquetting with the leaves and clover. This has given birth to a tradition that the wind does not touch terra firma, from the time it leaves Lake Erie, until it reaches this "heaven-kissing hill."

The manager of the house is U. S. Messiter, a man well and favorably known to Liberty's summer visitors, and who, with his good wife, has been a popular caterer to their wants for years. The house will be run on temperance principles, and no liquors will be sold on the premises. The aim of the proprietors and manager is to furnish a first-class, ideal home for their guests, and they solicit the patronage of families who want a quiet resort with all home comforts, in which to enjoy their summer outing. No pains will be spared to make the stay of all who may be received pleasant and healthful. Large stables with good livery at reasonable rates. Carriages will meet guests at station on notification, and on arrival of all trains.

WHITE LAKE, SULLIVAN CO.

For half a century this spot has been a favorite resort for sportsmen, invalids and pleasure-seekers. During the winter of 1885-86 the Liberty and White Lake Turnpike was organized, and a magnificent road built between these points, on which a line of tally-ho coaches run, connecting with all trains. The route was very largely patronized, and became at once the popular route to this resort. The drive from Liberty to White Lake is one of great beauty and interest. The scenery of Sullivan County is noted, but this lake, with its surroundings, is unsurpassed for beauty and attractive loveliness. It is the largest of a group of sixteen lakes in the centre of the town of Bethel, and receives its name from the whiteness of the sand on its shore and bottom, and the beautiful transparency of its waters. Its Indian name, Lake Kauneonga, is much prettier and more appropriate. It is elevated some 1,500 feet above the sea, and is consequently free from malaria influences, with an atmosphere uniformly cool during the summer months.

prised to find it so cool, even in late spring or midsummer; it is not uncommon to see snow drifts from the car windows as late as June 1st in this vicinity, and up at DeBruce, six miles away, it is claimed that ice forms on water every month in the year. This station is 129 miles from New York City, and is elevated 1,431 feet above tide-water, and was named in honor of Dr. Edward Livingston, nephew of Chancellor Livingston.

The old "Manor House," which the Doctor built, still stands, and is now a portion of the Clay Hotel, but a few steps from the station. The tourist, whether he comes here for a few days, fishing or hunting or for a two-months' stay, will find the best of accommodations at the numerous public houses, or in the homes of private families. The Little Beaverkill and Willowemoc streams unite their waters here. At the junction of these two rivers, and entirely surrounded by water, is an island of some forty acres, known as Sherwood's Grove, a favorite and popular resort.

The tourist is now in the very heart of the far-famed Beaverkill trout-fishing grounds, and during the hunting season can, if he chooses, bring down, with a well-directed shot, perhaps a bear or deer. Partridge-shooting is good on the hills overlooking the village. The growth of Livingston Manor has been so rapid as to astonish even the most sanguine, having increased in the last decade from 100 to nearly 1,000, at the time of taking the last census. This section of Sullivan County was for many years the El Dorado of the lumberman and the tanner. And now that sawdust and tan bark are no longer allowed to pollute the numerous fine trout streams about here, and together with the fact that the Company, assisted by private enterprise, have for many years been stocking these streams with vast numbers of fish from the State Hatchery, the number and size of the fish are increasing rapidly.

City people who are looking for a quiet spot "far from the madding crowd" and the shriek of the locomotive, will leave the Ontario & Western here and find stages ready to carry them in the Shin Creek region, eight miles away over the hills. This is the Lew Beach Post-last-named being in the vicinity of the station, and named after the late Roscoe Conkling. The first-named village is one mile away from the station, and but little of it can be seen from passing trains. The combined population of these two villages cannot be less than 1,000, and is rapidly increasing. Those in search of "a home among the mountains," during the heated term, will have no trouble in making a selection from among the many who have made preparations to accommodate the summer boarder. proper meet here, about a quarter of a mile below the railroad station; and for some years past the trout-fishing in both of these rivers has been excellent, some of the best native fishermen preferring these large streams to the numerous smaller trout brooks that are to be found on all sides.

Russell Pond, five miles from Rockland Village, is the Mecca to which all true disciples of Izaak Walton turn their steps sooner or later, and it can be reached more easily from this point than any other. This is by all odds the finest trout lake in the State, nestled among the Delaware County hills, and more than 2,000 feet above tide-water.

COOK'S FALLS, DELAWARE CO.,

Situated on the Beaverkill, 1,184 feet above the sea, is the first station in Delaware County (the post-office is Butternut Grove) and derives its name from a fall in the Beaverkill, on whose banks the village stands, and can be considered the entrance to the "Midland Trosachs," and it is well worth ten years of city life to spend a week fishing or hunting in this neighborhood. Four miles south of this place is Long Pond, one of the largest bodies of water in Sullivan County. The water here is deep and well adapted to the growth of the speckled or native trout, some having been caught that weighed three pounds. Several years ago the Company stocked these waters with lake trout that have already grown to considerable size and are now frequently caught. One mile below, Russell brook unites with the river, and, like the pond from which it takes its rise, is famous for the excellent fishing that it affords.

EAST BRANCH, DELAWARE CO.

In Nature's voluminous album of beauty there are few, if any, more attractive pages than the County of Delaware, the most picturesque portions of which are interwoven with the serpentine course of the east and west branches of the Delaware river, which have their sources respectively in the towns of Roxbury and Harpersfield and flow parallel in a southwesterly direction across the county, uniting at Hancock. These rivers are lined their entire length with precipitous mountains, rich farm lands and pretty villages, showing some new wonder of nature at every bend. They are Delaware's "lines of beauty," and the county is well adorned with these bright jewels threaded across her fair breast. Then there is the Beaverkill river, which has its source near the head-waters of the east branch of the Delaware, and empties its waters into that river at East Branch, its course being traversed several miles by the N. Y., O. & W. Railway. Though smaller than its sister rivers, it is quite a Cinderella in its primitive beauty. It is separated from the east branch in its entire course by a long spur of the Catskill, which ends abruptly at the junction of those rivers, at East Branch, in a knob known as Christopher Mountain—the Pike's Peak of Delaware County.

A HANDSOME COUNTRY VILLA—"THE PINES."

It is at the foot of this mountain on a small promontory, between and some fifty feet above the rivers and four or five hundred feet from their junction, that Gen. W. Martin, a man closely identified with many of the leading public and private enterprises of Delaware County, built his handsome residence.

"The Pines," a name very appropriately bestowed, since the side of the mountain in the immediate rear of the house is covered with a rich growth of tall pines; and it may well be added here that "The Pines," with its wealth of nature's beauty as complemented by the art of man, is the most romantic, wildest, prettiest place in this section of the State.

HANCOCK, DELAWARE CO.,

Is located 1,005 feet above the sea, and is an enterprising village of 2,500 inhabitants. There are four churches in the village, Methodist, Congregational, Baptist and Catholic, and a very fine union free school and academy. It is but thirty minutes' ride from the Ontario & Western's newly opened summer resort, Preston Park, Wayne County, Pa. It is fast coming into popular favor as a summer home for city people. Shanly's new hotel at Hancock is one of the best of the southern tier, being elegantly fitted up. The village is neat and pleasant, with the best of stone walks, and picturesque drives. It was Hancock which the author, N. P. Willis, used to annually visit, and "Point Mountain" and "Chehocton" (the Indian name for Hancock, signifying the "wedding of the waters") figure prominently in his delightful sketches. The east and west branches of the Delaware unite here and form the Delaware river. Bass and trout fishing are exceptionally good around Hancock, particularly the former. There are a number of good hotels and boarding-houses offering pleasant accommodations at reasonable rates.

HANCOCK JUNCTION.

Scranton Division.

Leaving Hancock, the Scranton Division crosses the Delaware river and runs through the beautiful lake region of Wayne County. In the two counties of Wayne and Susquehanna are 127 of these lovely mountain lakes, the greater number of which have been stocked with gamy bass and pickerel, furnishing sport dear to the heart of the fisherman who is almost always sure of good fishing in the clear water of their glacial ponds.

The road winds along the conical form of Sugar Loaf, and by the rocky slopes of Ararat. A few miles west of Ararat is the highest railroad pass in the United States east of the Rocky Mountains, being some 2,500 feet above tide-water, and here, in the fierce blasts of winter, railroad men encounter storms of snow and wind which frequently delay the long, heavy coal trains for hours at a time, and to these wild storms they gave the lively name of "Ararat thaws."

tled in 1829-30 by the Wurtz Brothers, who were the officers and agents of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company. Here is a thriving city of some 10,000 or 12,000 inhabitants, with manufactories and shops and all the evidences of a prosperous mining city. Here, too, the celebrated Gravity Road starts out to climb the mountain to Fairview, a summer resort on the very top of the Moosic, 2,200 feet above tide-water. The view from the observatory at this point is one never to be forgotten. The eye ranges over miles and miles of wooded hill and dale, interspersed with gleaming bodies of water, where nestle mountain lakes, and rich farming lands dotted with houses and orchards and fields of waving grain. Nineteen of these beautiful lakes can be counted from the observatory in favorable weather. WHITE BRIDGE, JERMYN, ARCHBALD, WINTON, PECKVILLE, OLYPHANT, DICKSON, THROOP, PROVIDENCE and PARK PLACE are stations in the almost continuous village stretching from Carbondale to Scranton, and all surrounded by the great coal-breakers of the mining companies.

called a Western City in an Eastern State. Started in 1847 as a little village about the iron-works of Henry & Co., by 1850 it had a population of 3,000; in 1860 this had increased to 9,000; in 1870 it had grown to 35,000; then came the depressing years between 1873 and 1877, when men left the coal-fields seeking work elsewhere, and yet by 1880 it had grown to 45,000; since then all the evidence at hand of directories and the most conservative estimates place its population at not less than 100,000. Where but a comparatively few years ago the north winds sighed among the pine and hemlock branches, to-day are to be found streets paved with sheet asphalt and lined on either side with handsome houses, the homes of Scranton's prosperous business men. In addition to its great advantages as a manufacturing and business centre, it is also one of the pleasantest summer resorts in the country. Here the nights in the summer are rarely ever oppressively warm, and from here as a centre daily excursions can be made to numerous points of interest scattered all around the valley and up and down the mountain ranges that hem it in on either side.

Scranton produces more steel rails within its limits than any other city in the world. Its two great mills turn out an average of over 1,000 tons of steel rails for every working-day in the year, and the light from the blast furnaces and steel converters casts a brilliant glow upon the horizon, night after night, year in and year out, while the fiery shower of sparks emitted by the huge converters at the end of each turn form a never-ending source of delight to the visitors, who nightly visit the steel mills to see a finer exhibition of fireworks than a Fourth of July display affords.

Its Secretary is always ready to furnish any information in regard to its resources.

ROCK RIFT, DELAWARE CO.

Returning to the main line after leaving Hancock Junction, the road for five miles makes a rapid ascent of the mountain dividing these streams, and passes over it at Apex, 1,462 feet above the sea, to the western face, along the precipitous side of which the roadway is hewn out of solid granite and gneiss. In this vicinity we pass the most striking scenery upon the entire road. Rock Rift is the only station which arrests the downward flight of the train. About half-way down the mountain the eye of the traveler is greeted with a glorious landscape, equaling the view of the famous Starrucca Valley. The west, or Mohawk, branch of the Delaware comes in sight, threading its way in its narrow and rocky channel far below, while its western bank is a lofty and almost perpendicular wall of rock. If this passage of the west branch through these rocky walls occurred in any of the rivers west of the Mississippi, it would be dignified with the high-sounding title of canyon. After descending the mountain, the train crosses the west branch of the Delaware river, and reaches

The Delhi Branch.

At Walton the Delhi Branch to Delhi leaves the main line. It is seventeen miles in length, and for its entire distance follows the west branch of the Delaware, as it winds through the narrow, exquisitely lovely valley, with its fertile mountain sides dotted here and there with groups of "sweet-breathed kine," and with fields of green and gold lying in between. To the lover of pastoral scenes no more enjoyable ride than that through this valley could be taken. The first station on the branch is at by natural beauty, elevation and climate for a summer resort, and is highly recommended by eminent physicians for those seeking rest and recreation in the country during the summer. It is located 1,453 feet above tide-water, absolutely free from malaria and mosquitoes, and is one of the most beautiful towns in the State. The west branch of the Delaware passes to the west of the village, and the Little Delaware, after forming its eastern boundary, bisects it and joins the parent stream about a mile below. Surrounded on all sides by spurs of the Catskills, which lose themselves in the most romantic valleys, one can drive in any direction and have at every step a shifting panorama of the wildest scenery. The walks in every direction are very attractive, the streets broad, shady and with excellent sidewalks. The churches, public buildings and private residences are elegant, the people intelligent and refined. The village is supplied with water and protected from fire by an excellent system of water-works, the water being brought from a lake or tarn high up in the overhanging hills. Beside the larger, there are several smaller streams well stocked with trout and other kinds of fish, which afford capital sport for the angler, the streams being annually replenished with young trout from the State Hatchery.

THE HEALTHFULNESS OF DELHI.

Delhi and vicinity are remarkably healthy. Situated in a narrow valley, at an elevation of 1,458 feet, with numerous streams and avenues for drainage, makes it impossible to obtain low, flat land or local accumulations for the development of miasmatic or malarial difficulties, especially with the ever-changing wind currents. Another reason for its healthfulness is the cleanliness of its dwellings and streets. These, together with the intelligence of its inhabitants in regard to sanitary laws and their importance, all contribute to establishing a better degree of health than prevails in other localities, as well as mitigating the severity and dangers of the epidemics of the diseases of children and unavoidable sickness. This is established from the fact that this vicinity has never been subjected to the severe epidemics that have prevailed in other parts of the county and State.

An inspection of the vital statistics of the town of Delhi from 1884 (the time of the commencement of such registration) to the close of 1888—four years—shows that there were 251 deaths in a population of 3,000, or a yearly average per cent. of 1.67. Of these 251 deaths there were three from bronchitis, all under one year; there were nineteen deaths from pneumonia, of which one-half were over sixty-five; of measles, one; of scarlet fever, none in four years; of diphtheria, one, and only two deaths in all this time from typhoid fever—and there is no more correct criterion of the healthfulness of a place than the prevalence or absence of diphtheria and typhoid fever. So we see that the statistics fully corroborate the fact that Delhi is one of the healthiest localities to be found anywhere.

The New Berlin Branch.

Two and a half miles beyond Sidney the New Berlin Branch leaves the main line, and extends northward twenty-two miles along the valley of the Unadilla river, through a delightful dairy region, with its quiet, pleasant hamlets. The valley of the Unadilla is about 1,000 feet above the sea, and forms the boundary between Otsego and Chenango counties. The towns along its banks upon either side, though small, are thrifty and very prettily situated.

ROCKDALE, CHENANGO CO.

This is the first station up the branch. Here the "Uncle Zech.

Curtis Spring" supplies the purest water. The drainage of the village is exceptionally good. The Unadilla river runs swiftly at this point, and a level plateau on the opposite shore, extending miles in both directions, covers with a light sandy soil all miasmatic vapors. There is a hotel with rooms "en suite," with plain but thoroughly good fare, at the most modest prices. There are farm-houses also that entertain summer guests, and for plain country living, without watering-place attractions, Rockdale extends a hospitable hand to all comers.

located at the terminus of the New Berlin Branch of the Ontario & Western Railway. A rich farming community surrounds it, and butter, cheese and milk are its chief exports. It is the principal village in the Wharton Valley, and consequently a trade centre for the eight or ten smaller villages that nestle about it within a radius of ten miles. The Wharton creek flows southerly through the valley and village, and furnishes never-failing water-power. As to climate, there is no more healthful spot on the footstool. Since the advent of the railroad it has become quite a resort for city people, who find ample accommodations at the three large hotels in the place, and at farm residences. The increase in population the past year has been over one hundred, and some twelve or fifteen new buildings have been erected.

Along the Chenango.

GUILFORD, CHENANGO Co.

Returning to the main line, we commence another ascending grade over the divide between the Susquehanna and its largest tributary, the Chenango. The village of Guilford is surrounded by a rich agricultural district. Has many pleasant summer abiding-places. The fishing is excellent, as the people of the village take considerable interest in the fish laws, and protect the many lakes in their vicinity by game laws, as well as stocking them with lake trout, and the brooks with brook trout.

OXFORD, CHENANGO Co.

Oxford is one of the prettiest villages in central New York. It is situated on both banks of the Chenango river, 1,156 feet above the sea. It has a healthy location and ample drainage. By the last census the village has a population of 1,630, a gain of 444 in ten years, and also shows the largest gain in per cent. of any town in the county. It is well laid out, has fine parks and clean, shaded streets, and is supplied with pure spring water from the surrounding hills. As a resort for summer boarders it is rapidly gaining in popular favor, and last season accommodated a large number. There are three hotels and several private boarding-houses—one in particular, an old family mansion with the finest surroundings in town—that solicit summer boarders.

215 MILES FROM NEW YORK. LOCAL, $8.00; LIMITED, $9.00; EXCURSION, $9.00.

The healthfulness of the town, its society and advantages, beautiful drives, etc., are not to be compared with any town of its size. There are six churches, bank, telegraph offices, and numerous well-conducted business places, also an opera-house on the ground-floor that presents many first-class entertainments. The Academy, one of most charming villages in New York State, noted for its beautiful situation and healthful surroundings. The seat of Hamilton College and the Litchfield Observatory; two seminaries for young ladies, Houghton and Cottage, and two boarding-schools for boys, Clinton Grammar School and Kirkland Hall, have given the village a wide reputation as an educational centre. Near the village are the smelting-furnaces of the Franklin Iron Manufacturing Company and the Kirkland Iron Company, and also the extensive iron-ore mines of the former Company. Various other manufacturing industries give the town a business-like aspect, which is very pleasing in connection with its literary and scholastic tendencies. Immediately south of the village are located three mineral springs, whose waters are fast gaining a wide reputation and sale for their medicinal properties. Clinton is in the midst of the hop-producing region, and is one of the leading hop-markets of the State. The substantial and comfortable homes of the well-to-do farming community offer delightful opportunities for summer boarders, who enjoy wholesome living amid the quiet peace of rural scenes. Nine miles from Utica (population 40,000) and twelve miles from Rome (population 15,000).

UTICA, ONEIDA Co.

One of the most enterprising cities of central New York, with

LOCAL, $7.42; LIMITED, $8.00;
EXCURSION, $10.00.

40,000 inhabitants. It is largely engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes, clothing, cotton and woolen goods. Next to Rochester it is the largest manufacturer of clothing in this country. Five railroads reach Utica.

ROME, ONEIDA CO.,

Is a city of 15,000 inhabitants, lying in the beautiful Mohawk Valley.

220 MILES FROM NEW YORK.
LOCAL, $7.77; LIMITED, $8.30;
EXCURSION, $10.00.

The city is largely devoted to manufacturing: the Rome Locomotive Works, Brass and Copper Mills, Rome Merchant Iron Mill, saddlery, sash, blind and knitting factories being among the most important. Is the eastern terminus of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad. The sweet-corn canning industry in this locality takes the lead in this country. Rome is one of the most beautiful and healthful places in central New York. With broad, well-shaded streets, and flagged sidewalks, it commands the admiration of all visitors. There are beautiful locations for country-seats near the city. The Central New York School for Deaf-Mutes is located here, and is well worth a visit. It has new buildings at a cost of $150,000. Hotel accommodations are good at moderate rates. Many trout-fishing and camping parties make this point their headquarters during the season.

MORRISVILLE, MADISON CO.

Fifteen miles from Oneida; county seat; population 900; high elevation; village two miles from Ontario & Western Railway; fine hunting and fishing in vicinity. Three large hotels and several private boarding-houses. The village is beautifully laid out with wide, well-kept streets lined with large maples. Principal industry, manufacturing of cutters. This place during the past ten years has become quite a popular resort for New York summer boarders. The principal agricultural industry in this vicinity is the raising of hops, which is carried on to a great extent.

LIMITED FARE, $5.50; EXCURSION, $10.00.

KENWOOD, MADISON CO.

At this point is located the "Oneida Community, Limited," consisting of over 300 members, with a fine estate of 650 acres, beautifully situated, and under the most admirable cultivation; a commodious mansion, and several mills and manufactories. Their reorganization, in 1880, has removed whatever was objectionable in their past management, and they have entered upon a new career as a business organization under the most favorable circumstances. They are engaged in the manufacture of hunters' traps and satchels, and the preparation of canned vegetables and fruits. All their manufactures have gained an enviable reputation for excellence.

LIMITED FARE, $5.50;
EXCURSION, $10.00.

The village contains a population of 6,020, has a fine system of water-works, and is lit with electric lights. There are two good graded schools, eight churches, five banks, two semi-weekly and two weekly newspapers. The Chappell, Chase, Maxwell & Co.'s Casket-manufactory, a spring-bed factory, chuck-works, wagon-works, knitting-mill, cigar-manufactories, and other manufactures give employment to 1,200 hands, making a thriving and rapidly growing village. After leaving Oneida, the topography of the country undergoes a change. Instead of a hilly country, with its succession of gracefully rounded summits and deep secluded valleys, we find a level, rolling surface, resembling somewhat the prairies of the West.

SYLVAN BEACH, ONEIDA CO.

Beautifully situated on the point of land lying between Oneida Lake on the north and Wood river on the south. Its great natural beauty has made it the favorite resort of Utica, Rome, Oneida and Syracuse people, many of whom have erected cottages in which the entire summer season is spent. The bathing is unequalled by any inland summer resort; the beach of white sand gently declines for a half-mile before the water reaches a dangerous depth, and extends for miles around the lake, forming an inland Coney Island—perfectly safe for children. Bathing-suits and attendants may be had at reasonable rates at the bathing-houses. Boats, oarsmen and fishing-tackle may be had at the dock. Bass, pickerel, pike, perch, and other fish are abundant in both the river and lake. The wild shores of the lake and the neighboring islands afford good duck, woodcock, partridge and snipe shooting in season. This is the largest and one of the most beautiful of the inland lakes of New York, being twenty-seven miles long by seven wide, and has an area of about 57,000 acres. Its surface is 369 feet above the sea, and 142½ above Lake Ontario. It occupies a portion of four counties, viz.: Oneida, Oswego, Madison and Onondaga. Its outlet is the Oneida river which, after flowing westward for eighteen miles, unites with the Seneca river to form the Oswego. The lake contains two islands (Frenchman's and Lotus), and there probably cannot be found two more healthful spots in the State. It is said of these islands that, "when the Great Spirit formed the world, His smile rested on the waters of the blue Oneida, and Frenchman's Island arose to greet it. He laughed, and Lotus Island came up to listen." On Frenchman's Island is located the Sylvan House, which is reached from Cleveland or Constantia (being four miles from the latter place) by steam-yacht. The salubrity of climate, cool breezes, great fertility of soil, bathing, boating, fishing, and an absolute freedom from the restraints of fashion render this a delightful summer retreat.

CLEVELAND, OSWEGO CO.

Pleasantly located on the north shore of Oneida Lake, with a population of about 870. The people hospitable, enterprising and liberal. The village is surrounded with excellent roads, and embraces among its attractions two delightful groves on the lake-shore, which are resorted to on moonlight nights by dancing parties from across the lake. Cleveland has two large factories for the manufacture of window-glass; has four churches and three hotels; row and sail boats for pleasure or fishing parties can be obtained; splendid bass and pike fishing.

FULTON, OSWEGO CO.

It is situated at the Falls of the Oswego river, and has one of the best water-powers in the State, having a fall of twenty-five feet in less than half a mile, with the great and unfailing volume of water supplied by the Oswego river and its feeders. The water-power is utilized by five large flouring-mills, foundries, machine-shops, knife-works, two paper-mills, planing-mills, plaster-mills, etc. On the west side of the river, and supplied by the same falls, are the great "Worsted Mills" of the Oswego Falls Manufacturing Company, said to be the largest manufactory of worsted goods in the United States. These mills run over 14,000 spindles and over 600 looms, use 35,000 to 40,000 pounds of wool weekly, and employ nearly 1,000 operatives. The village has seven churches, two national banks, one savings-bank, two newspaper offices, and five public schools of high reputation. Here is situated, also, Falley Seminary, long known as one of the best educational institutions of its class in the State. The population of Fulton, including Oswego Falls, on the main bank of the river, immediately opposite and connected with it by two iron bridges, was about 6,000 in 1880.

Oswego, the northern lake terminus of the road, is a very attractive city. The streets are broad and shaded; the blocks are 200 to 400 feet. There are two large parks and several of lesser size. It has many fine public buildings, among which the most notable are: The Custom-house and Post-office, built by the National Government; the City Hall; the State Normal and Training School; the State Armory; the Gerritt Smith Library; the Home for the Homeless; the Orphan Asylum; the High School, and the Academy of Music. Several of the hotels and business warehouses are fine massive buildings of very tasteful architecture. The Doolittle House, in particular, is—in its architecture, the perfection of its appointments, its extent and its admirable management—a house which will compare favorably with the great hotels of our largest cities. The Deep Rock Mineral Springs, which have achieved a good reputation in rheumatic and kidney diseases, are on the premises, and their waters are furnished free to the guests of the house. There are sulphur springs of acknowledged virtue in the same vicinity. Oswego has many claims to the attention of the tourist and pleasure-seeker. It is beautifully situated, facing Lake Ontario on its northwest front, and from the bold bluffs or escarpments along the lake commands a view of the distant Canada shore and of the St. Lawrence, which, over rapids and through a wilderness of islands, carries the waters of the lake on toward the sea; its extensive falls and slack-water navigation, which add beauty as well as wealth to the city; its unrivaled facilities for pleasurable navigation, whether in stately steamer, white-winged yacht or steam launch; its inexhaustable resources for the sportsmen of every degree in its trout streams, its black-bass fishing, its lake fishing, where muskallonge, white-fish, salmon trout, land-locked salmon, and now the finest sea-salmon, pike, sturgeon and other “monsters of the bubbling deep” contend for the honor of being caught.
